ICARE
INTEGRATING COMPREHENSIVE ACCESSIBLE RESOURCES EQUITABLY

ICARE is a partnership between the UNC Charlotte School of Work, Mental Health Research and Practice Lab, and the Academy for Research on Community Health, Engagement and Services (ARCHES). ICARE is an innovative peer-led case management team that serves to promote an integrative culturally adaptive and equitable implementation science framework to build effective linkage to culturally-relevant services and community resources. The program aims to reduce barriers in service delivery and facilitate an optimal follow-up process for the campus and Charlotte community. The original founders of ICARE include UNC Charlotte Faculty (Dr. Sonyia Richardson, Roger Suclupe, Dr. Mark DeHaven) and graduate students (Saliseah Scales, Kejana Da Silva Toreiro, Chris Bonilla, Nathallie Chavez) in collaboration with ARCHES and a student led research team (Alyssa Benziger, Nashe Marshall, Melissa Badger, Ariana Ponce, Emma Weichmann).

ICARE is committed to advocating for underserved communities through the intentional delivery of equitable resources and services.
